Those guys ended up turning out to be crooks.

We have a meeting on Monday with the Chairman of that company and another Board Member of that company to walk them thru all the criminal activities that their primary owner and investor are involved in.

So, what happened, is, we built our team, they were supposed to build a team. They didn't build a team. They were supposed to bring AI solutions that worked. Their AI solutions didn't work. So, we had to figure out, how do we protect Wright Brewer and AFG and this investment that he's making in modernizing the automotive industry with artificial intelligence solutions when we don't know if we're going to have an AI company available. Oh, by the way, Wright Brewer has an Exclusive Reseller Agreement that is a bi-directional agreement between AFG and BenAI where BenAI is the Artificial Intelligence Company. And in that Agreement, we (AFG) cannot build, develop competing solutions against BenAI. We can't do it.

However, they also have obligations on their side which they have not fulfilled. So, we've had to create an environment where we focus on getting the data, automating the data solutions, building the framework, the platform, laying the foundation for where we're going to take this business over the next five (5) years. Develop the five (5) year plan that takes this company to a billion dollars deploying AI solutions thru our Symphainy platform across the automotive industry. He (Jason De LaPorte) and I have been going out and meeting with OEMs, the Distributor Groups, Dealer Groups and Dealers, talking about this solution. And they're all in, they're ready to go. We're not going to deploy a solution that doesn't work. AI.

So now let's talk about AI. Ummm. The BenAI solution didn't work because they couldn't do Oddo. Meaning, they could not go into a database, grab data, and spit out a right answer. They couldn't do that. They could not provide graphs or charts or anything. They did not have a base of technology that translated conversational AI into an answer, into data, from an automotive dealer's data. It didn't work so we had to go do research and find a Plan B. So, we did a systems engineering trade study on what other packages were available off the shelf. We can't go develop it because that would be us developing competing solutions. And go find what alternatives were available off the shelf that we can integrate with to solve that problem, creating an environment where if we solve that problem, if we need to apply, if if the relationship between AFG and Ben BenAI works out and we still we're still under the Reseller Agreement we can use their avatars we can use their automated speech recognition, we can use all this stuff.

The amount of crap that we have been dealing with behind the scenes would make you eyeballs fall out. The reason you don't see me in there. The reason you rarely see him (Jason De LaPorte) in there is because we are dealing with all of that for Wright Brewer. We're trying to help Wright Brewer not lose $32 Million Dollars. We're just trying to help Wright Brewer not lose the ten and a half ($10.5) Million Dollars he's already invested in all these technologies in dealing with these criminals, right. Uhh, and we're trying to help Wright Brewer have a technology company that can go start delivering AI solutions to the AI market when all this shit gets worked-out. Okay.

...So we can go take, we can go focus on building the foundation, and the development environments, and the infrastructure, and the data solutions right that you have been working on and nobody, trust me, nobody undervalues you or the work that you've done. Nobody. The fact that we've labeled you as an Integration Engineer, right, I would never say this outside of this room that was Erick.

....Cuz we are still on the Reseller Agreement. Wright's only power, only power against the criminals is that Reseller Agreement we cannot do anything that even scratches trying to violate that Reseller Agreement until until we get through what we got to get through to get him separated and divorced from the criminals get his money back and not put another 26 million dollars of his money at risk. Because that's what's at risk now. Dude, we're talking about 32 million dollar investment into a company where he was manipulated, deceived and defrauded. - Dave Duggan

And (unintelligible) no one knew until we were past NADA -Jason DeLaPorte

No one. Dude, when we were hiring you and we were talking about AI we thought we were gonna have a team of AI Engineers from frickin BenAI. -Dave Duggan

....But it may be a it might have been a giant saving grace because when when Dave says these guys are like (unintelligible) he's not exaggerating they're literally criminals they're felons. We had no idea. This is about to be a really really really bad thing. And thankfully, uh, we got wind of it when all the stuff started looking weird with Travis and you know all the sudden now Travis the President of our former technology company comes out and does a Automotive News thing and somehow it reaches 48 Attorney Generals and something doesn't sound right. Well, its because it wasn't right.

....Wright Brewer had an entire technical team that was not supporting him and protecting him cuz what's an what's an Engineering Team gonna do when a company like BenAI comes in and says 'our stuff's ready to go, alls you gotta do is provide the data and we already know you have the data. What's a real Engineering Team gonna do? 'No we don't, we don't have that.' We've got one tiny piece of one data source. We don't even have all the data sources. Nobody told Wright that. Wright thought he had the data. He didn't have the data. - Dave Duggan

He thought he had the infrastructure - Jason DeLaPorte).

He thought he had the infrastructure. He didn't have the infrastructure. The infrastructure, the nightmare you just went thru with the Terraform... - Dave Duggan

Our onboarding tool (unintelligible) - Jason DeLaPorte.

Dude, He didn't have any of that. And he didn't have Engineers that were willing to tell him the truth. And he had this AI company that's like we're ready to go, our (unintelligible) works. I mean, they told him two weeks. One to two weeks per use case to turn it around. One to two weeks. - Dave Duggan

Wow - Maurice Fitzpatrick

Nope, that wasn't true. That didn't work. So... - Dave Duggan

....And so we're having to figure out how we navigate that Minefield, to protect Wright, and to help him come out the back side with, he gets the money back, he keeps his company, and he said and in the middle of all this when we asked him do you want to do you want to keep going he is I mean he doesn't even, Dude, that's not even a second thought. That's how much confidence he has in the team over there. He loves you guys. He passionately loves you guys.

So, I wasn't aware of your case until I guess that was Thursday when I reached out to you. Uhm, because I don't have any, you know, visibility into the uh AFG, versus Genuine Lifetime case, but I got a call that morning from, um, their lawyer, um, oh, McCathern, and he called me to say, hey...

And that's really what our lawsuits all about. Um, but you know what the thing is, I wanted to talk to you about this is that, um, I want to see if you would, if you would, uh, be open to coming in, uh, tomorrow, meeting me at our offices and talking with me and Jason Blackstone, who I put on that email about your case, um, because I want to explore the possibility of maybe us representing you in the Denton case, um, because I saw that you have an injunction hearing at 9 a.m. set for Tuesday. And, uh, I want to talk to you about, you know, if you feel comfortable and there, there's no conflicts of interest there that we could represent you. And I, I could appear at that, that, uh, that uh hearing for you just so you know, uh, Tiffany Haertling your judge in Denton is a law school classmate of mine. And, and, uh, she was a dear friend of mine in law school. And, uh, I think we could do a bit of damage to the to AFG in your case.

The thing is, is that, um, that's the reason why, if you are open the idea of coming in tomorrow, so, you know, we can talk to you, but that's the reason why my proposal hearing this and I talked to McCathern about it too is that, um, so I reached out and talked to McCathern on Thursday. I talked with the CEO of, and the owner of, Genuine Lifetime, which is Michael Lucas. and they said that they, uh you know, they're like saying, hey, is there, can you please call Maurice and see if if he would, you know, want to be a joint defendant with us.

Cuz, I can tell you Mark Hill is gonna walk in there and try to get an injunction against you (Maurice Fitzpatrick) and if you don't have someone there representing you to push back and say, no, we don't agree, uh because they're gonna try you know to use that injunction to prevent you from going to do anything new, employment wise.

Additional Post-Call Text Exchange with Attorney Matthew Yarbrough

Following the phone call on January 12, 2025 (Exhibits I through Q above), I, Maurice Fitzpatrick, received a series of text messages from Attorney Matthew Yarbrough that appeared to be a mix of offers of help with attempts to redirect or control my legal claims, standing and worse, to sabotage, obstruct and retaliate further. These text messages are provided below as part of this Exhibit R:

Yarbrough Blackstone PLLC
5956 Sherry Lane

— Matthew Yarbrough, Jan 12, 2025, 5:19 PM CST

Maurice, sorry I didn't call back tonight I got caught up on that other case. That is crazy about the unemployment stuff, but totally tracks how unethical & greedy Brewer/AFG are. I spoke with the Founders of Genuine Lifetime tonight. They would like to cover your legal fees and provide you counsel for your Denton case through me and Jason Blackstone. Also, I think the Founders can be helpful to getting your career back on track & stop AFG from hurting you in the job market. Can we meet up tomorrow to discuss your case & so I can introduce you to Jason and our legal team? Best, Matthew

— Matthew Yarbrough, Jan 12, 2025, 10:38 PM CST

I think I would first need something verifiable and persuasive showing that they had absolutely no knowledge or collusion with AFG, Wright Brewer or WB's minions, to push forward the business combination anyways while knowing of Tronix's major technical deficiencies rendering Tronix impossible to support BEN's AI objectives.

I know for a fact that Wright Brewer and executive leadership knew the whole time.

I want to understand why securities continue to be traded and there has been no update to material falsehoods in SEC filings?

— Maurice Fitzpatrick's Response to Yarbrough's Offer of Representation, Jan 12, 2025, 11:17 PM CST

Sorry Maurice I've been working on other cases today. I will be working on the Gates case tomorrow at the office. If you want to stop by and discuss the collective cases I can introduce you to the team or we can do a conference call. I'm happy to share anything with you that I can. Best, Matthew

— Matthew Yarbrough, Jan 14, 2025, 5:58 PM CST

Let's talk about that tomorrow. Since you don't have federal 'diversity of parties' (meaning you are a TX resident, and AFG is a TX resident) against AFG in your case, you would need to find an 'exclusive federal jurisdiction' hook under federal law. I don't believe federal Civil RICO is an exclusive jurisdiction statute, but don't quote me on that yet. I haven't used it in a while. When I was a federal prosecutor (AUSA) at the US Attorney's Office I used to use Criminal RICO all the time, but Civil RICO I haven't used in a while. I'll double check the statute for you tonight.

— Matthew Yarbrough, Jan 14, 2025, 6:08 PM CST

I saw the news today, and read your BEN/AFG lawsuit.

— Maurice Fitzpatrick, Jan 17, 2025, 4:39 PM CST

What do you think? When are we gonna get together & help each other out?

— Matthew Yarbrough, Jan 17, 2025, 5:30 PM CST

I believe Matthew Yarbrough's text messages and the lawsuit he filed, his Plaintiff's Original Complaint in the Brand Engagement Network, Inc. v. Ralph Wright Brewer III, et. al. \(3:25-cv-00114\) lawsuit on January 16, 2025 (Doc. No. 1), he never disclosed while he was trying to finesse, offer-up fake representation, and to control me and my claims.

My response came in the form of a Motion to Intervene and Notices of Removal \(on civil rights grounds\) of two state cases, one in Tarrant County (017-352358-24), obstructive of my intervention rights and which an active fraud was being perpetrated on the Court, and the other case, a retaliatory lawsuit out of Denton County (24-11876-442) architected and executed by Mark L. Hill, Steven Ovando, Barbara Blaylock, Mary Baker and others of the Scheef & Stone LLP and Henry Hill PLLC law firms, both of Frisco, Texas, for, and on behalf of Ralph Wright Brewer III, AFG, its affiliate and/or sister companies, and AFG executives including Dave Duggan, Jason DeLaPorte, Amanda Tettleton and others.
